

Supporting Communication and Independence

Muna's Childminding Setting

What is this showcase about?

How Muna, a childminder, used action research to help a non-verbal child communicate and become more independent using simple ordinarily available communication strategies.

Expect to see...

- How different approaches were tried and adapted
- How a communication device was used and modelled
- How trust was built with parents

Download

Story of Implementation